*Don't trust him. It wasn't me.
It couldn't have been me.*

Meet Evie, a young woman held captive by a man named Jim in the isolated New Zealand beach town of Maketu. Jim says he's hiding Evie to protect her, that she did something terrible back home in Melbourne.

In a house that creaks against the wind, Evie begins to piece together her fractured memories of the events that led her here.

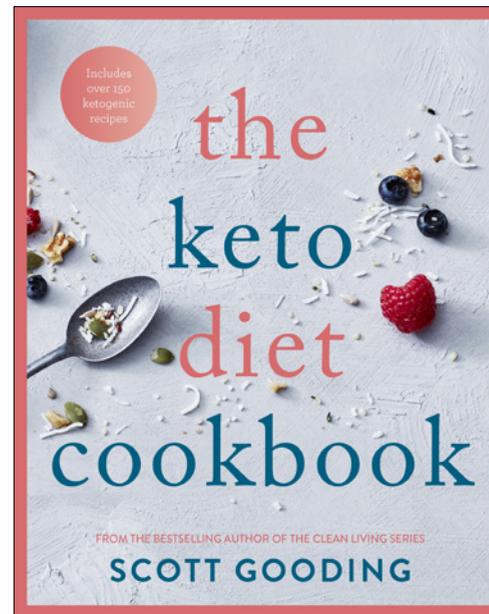

Jim says he's keeping her safe. Evie's not sure she can trust Jim, but can she trust her own memories?

J.P. POMARE

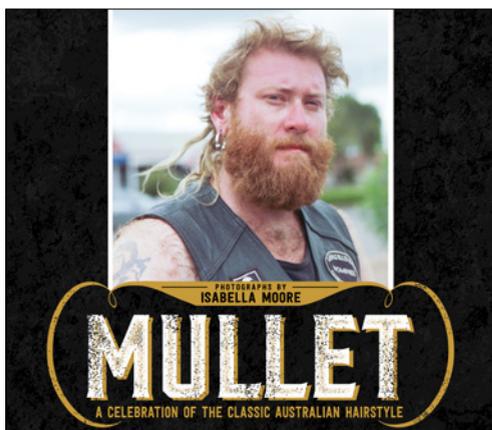

Before I was an author I was ... a manager with my brother's boutique marketing company. On the side I wrote reviews, articles and produced a podcast called On Writing.

I started writing Call Me Evie because ...

I always wanted to write novels. Through high school I read and fanaticised about creating my own worlds for others to explore, then in my early twenties I wrote a lot of short stories. Some were published but most are probably still sitting somewhere on a dusty hard drive. I wanted to wait until I felt confident tackling a novel and so eventually I began writing Call Me Evie, snatching quiet moments to write around my work week.

Call Me Evie* was inspired by ... Maketu. Call Me Evie is not only a psychological suspense novel, in many ways it's also a love letter to a small beach town on the east coast of the North Island of New Zealand. The people, the rugged yet beautiful landscape, the atmosphere, I wanted above all else to capture that sense of place.

When I'm not writing I ... am baking scones, drinking coffee and reading books. I wish I could offer something more exciting but these are the things I love to do most. I also travel as much as I can with my wife, and produce a monthly podcast where I get to speak to other authors and break down the craft of writing.

Who doesn't love a mullet? (The hairstyle, not the fish.) All right, not everyone does — but we all like to have an opinion about mullets. The mullet can be found throughout Australia, in cities, towns and out bush, on men, women and children. Mullet is a collection of photographs that celebrate the glory that is the mullet.

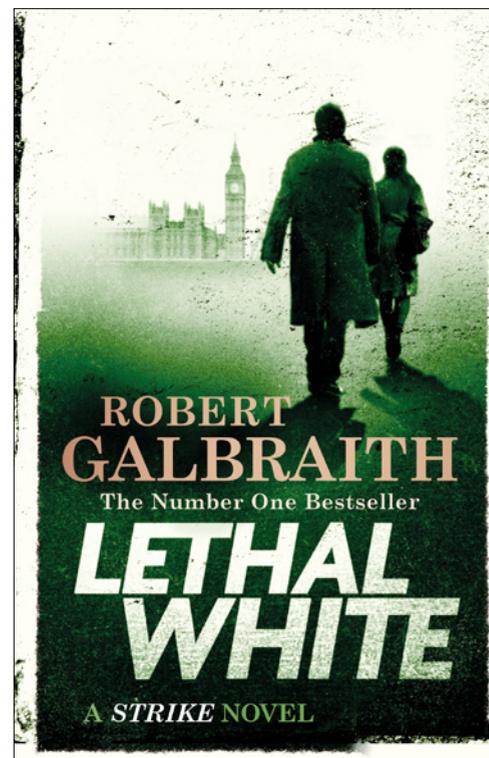

Isabella Moore attended the 2018 Mulletfest in the NSW country town of Kurri Kurri and photographed a range of spectacular mullets. The resulting book, Mullet, contains fine examples of mullets as seen on Australians old and young.

ISABELLA MOORE is an Australian documentary photographer born and based in Sydney. Her work focuses primarily on contemporary issues and culture and has been published in The Guardian, the New York Times and VICE among others. She has independently researched and captured stories in Russia, Brazil, Peru, France and Sweden. Her first book, Mullet, features the portrait of a Junior Mullet Category Contestant that was a finalist in the prestigious photographic Moran Prize in 2018.

This collection of photographs of exceptional Australian mullets showcases this persistently present hairstyle in all its splendour. Not sure what to buy your mates for Christmas? Now you know.

When Billy, a troubled young man, comes to private eye Cormoran Strike's office to ask for his help investigating a crime he thinks he witnessed as a child, Strike is left deeply unsettled. While Billy is obviously mentally distressed, and cannot remember many concrete details, there is something sincere about him.

Trying to get to the bottom of Billy's story, Strike and Robin Ellacott set off on a twisting trail that leads them through the backstreets of London, into a secretive inner sanctum within Parliament, and to a beautiful but sinister manor house deep in the countryside.

And during this labyrinthine investigation, Strike's own life is far from straightforward. His relationship with his former assistant is now fraught than it ever has been — Robin is now invaluable to Strike in the business, but their personal relationship is much more tricky than that.

ROBERT GALBRAITH is a pseudonym for J.K. Rowling, bestselling author of the Harry Potter series and The Casual Vacancy. The three previous Strike novels all topped the national and international bestseller lists and were adapted for a major television series for BBC One, produced by Brontë Film and Television.

The most epic Robert Galbraith novel yet, Lethal White is both a gripping mystery and a page-turning instalment in the ongoing story of Cormoran Strike and Robin Ellacott.

COLLETT SMART

As a child my favourite book was ... Well, it wasn't one book, it was The Magic Faraway Tree series by Enid Blyton. I read the series a few times, first to myself and then to anyone who would listen (including my younger brother). When I became a teacher, my first class was a bunch of wide-eyed 6-year-olds. I read it to them too.

The best part of writing They'll Be Okay was ... the people. In my book I talk about the African philosophy of 'Ubuntu' - meaning, 'A person is a person through other people'. Ubuntu recognises that we are formed through the influence, care and interaction with 'our tribe'. We did not arrive at who we are by our own making.

Describe They'll Be Okay in a sentence: It's a book for all the parents who have asked me a variation of a particular question over the years (and increasingly in this post-#metoo climate) - 'How do we practically teach young people about healthy relationships?'

Which conversation out of the 15 within They'll Be Okay are you most passionate about? It's tough to pick one, but I think I am really passionate about the conversation titled 'Emotional Intelligence': You don't need to be 'happy' all the time.

My favourite place to curl up with a book is ... That depends upon the season. In winter there is a spot where the sun streams in through my bedroom window, onto the carpet. I lie there on the floor with a pillow and a blanket, and read.

Feeling your best is about far more than deciding what colour to paint your accent wall or how to apply nightly moisturiser. At a cultural moment when we are all craving people to admire, Queer Eye offers hope and acceptance.

Umuahia, Nigeria. Chinonso, a young poultry farmer, sees a woman attempting to jump to her death from a highway bridge. Horrified by her recklessness, Chinonso hurls two of his most prized chickens into the water below to demonstrate the severity of the fall. The woman, Ndali, is moved by his sacrifice.

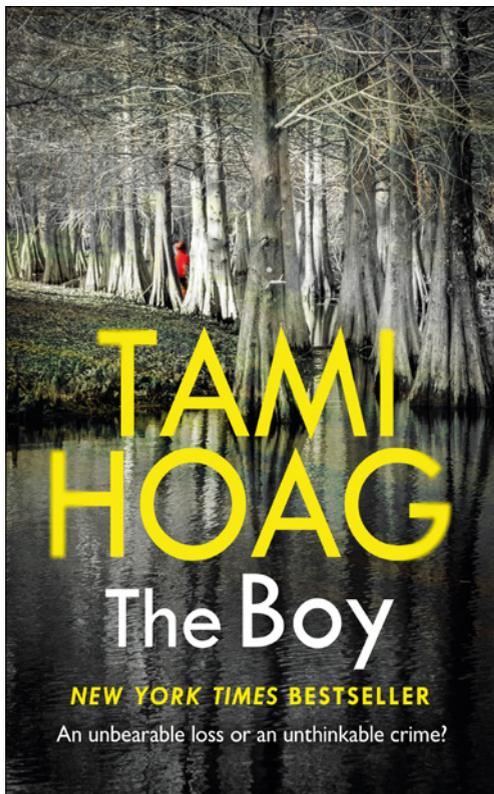

Bonded by this strange night on the bridge, Chinonso and Ndali fall in love. But Ndali is from a wealthy family, and when they officially object to the union, Chinonso sells most of his possessions to attend a small college in Cyprus. Once there, he discovers that all is not what it seems. Chinonso gets further and further away from his dream, from Ndali and the place he called home.

In this contemporary take on of Homer's Odyssey, Chigozie Obioma weaves a heart-wrenching epic about the tension between destiny and determination.

So many ways to die and he knows every one of them.

When a priest is found crucified in a derelict North London chapel, it makes a dramatic change for DI Charlie George and his squad at Essex Road. The brutal murder could not be further from their routine of domestic violence and stabbings on the estates.

And that's only the beginning . . .

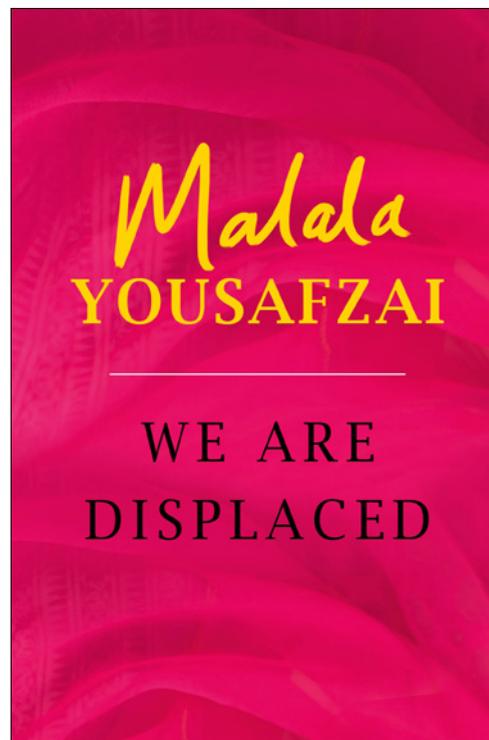

On Christmas Eve, a police officer goes missing and his colleagues can't help but anticipate the worst. It turns out they're right to when eventually the body is found and they discover he's been stoned to death.

As tensions rise, it's up to Charlie and his team to venture into the city's cold underbelly to try and find an answer to the madness — before anyone else dies a martyr's death.

LOOKER

Laura Sims

Trade Paperback 9781472258816 | $29.99
Ebook 9781472258793 | $14.99 | Tinder Press

The Professor lives in Brooklyn; her partner Nathan has left her; she can't have a baby. All she's left with is Nathan's old moggy, Cat. Who she doesn't even like.

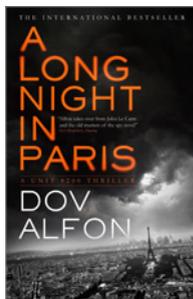

Then a celebrity actress moves into the area. She's beautiful, with long auburn hair, perfect skin, a lovely smile. She's got children – a baby, even. And a husband who seems to adore her. She leaves discarded household items and toys outside for thrift collection. She leaves her windows open, even at night.

There's no harm, the Professor thinks, in recycling those items. Or looking in through the illuminated glass at that shiny, happy family. Is there?

LAURA SIMS is the author of four books of poetry, and Looker is her debut novel.

Dov Alfon

Trade Paperback 9780857058799 | $32.99
Ebook 9780857058829 | $14.99 | MacLehose Press

When one Israel citizen disappears from a French airport, you could put it down to youthful indiscretion. When a second from the same flight is missing from his hotel room, you might have a diplomatic crisis on your hands.

Colonel Abadi, recently appointed head of the Special Section of Unit 8200 is Israel's most secretive intelligence service.

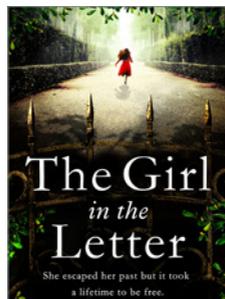

His only allies are his deputy back in Israel, the dazzling and hot-headed Lieutenant Oriana Talmor, and a French detective hung out to dry by his superiors.

And then there are their enemies in the Paris establishment and the labyrinthine, backstabbing Israeli intelligence community.

Born and brought up in Paris, DOV ALFON is a former intelligence officer of Unit 8200. This is his first work of fiction.

Sisters Lu and Min have always understood their places as princesses of the Empire. Lu knows she is destined to become the dynasty's first female ruler, while Min is resigned to a life in her shadow. Then their father declares their male cousin, Set, the heir instead — a betrayal that sends the sisters down two very different paths.

Determined to reclaim her birthright, Lu goes on the run. She needs an ally — and an army — if she is to succeed.

Alone in the volatile court, Min's hidden power awakens — a forbidden, deadly magic that could secure Set's reign . . . or allow Min to claim the throne herself. But there can only be one Emperor, and the sisters' greatest enemy could turn out to be each other.

MIMI YU is an alumna of the Popular Fiction workshop with Marjorie Liu at Voices of Our Nation's Arts (VONA)/University of California at Berkeley 2014, and VONA/University of Miami 2015. She also has a BA in liberal arts from Sarah Lawrence College, New York, and an MFA in fine art from Parsons School of Design. The Girl King is her first novel.

HOW TO TRAIN YOUR DRAGON FILM TIE-IN

Cressida Cowell

Paperback 9781444950380 | $14.99

Hodder Children's Books

Hiccup Horrendous Haddock III was the greatest Viking Hero who ever lived. But it wasn't always like that. In fact, in the beginning, Hiccup Horrendous Haddock III was the most put-upon Viking you'd ever seen. Not loud enough to make himself heard at dinner; not hard enough to beat his chief rival at Bashyball, and CERTAINLY not stupid enough to go into a cave full of dragons to find a pet . . . It's time for Hiccup to learn how to be a Hero.

CRESSIDA COWELL is the author and the illustrator of the bestselling How to Train Your Dragon and The Wizards of Once book series, and the author of the Emily Brown picture books.

Rachel Walker's family and community have turned away from the world.

Every part of Rachel's life is controlled, from what she reads to where she goes and what she wears. Her parents dictate how her life must be: marriage, modesty, children and obedience to her future husband. But when a former member of her community, a girl who escaped, moves back to her small Texas town, Rachel's world turns upside down.

She realises that her life is her own. But can she find the courage to fight for it?

JENNIFER MATHIEU, author of Moxie, teaches English to middle and high schoolers in Texas. She writes contemporary YA fiction that treats teens like real people.
