At 10 years old, Isa's life in the Congolese city of Bukavu changed forever. The streets were burning. Back then, he had a choice to make. Death or a gun. He picked up the gun and became a child soldier.

After years of horror, Isa escaped, and he is given a chance of freedom when he travels to Australia. He brings with him papers that grant him refugee status, the hope that he can find his brother, Moïse, and the scars of a brutal war.

Here, the fighting skills Moïse taught him when he was a boy see Isa become a talented young boxer. His powerful left hook promises much, but the demons he is wrestling with have a power all their own.

Far away from any World War II battlefront, the citizens of Melbourne were living in terror of a serial killer – the Brownout Strangler.

MURDER AT DUSK

Ian W. Shaw

Trade Paperback 9780733640452 | $32.99

Ebook 9780733640469 | $14.99 | Hachette Australia

May 1942. Melbourne is torn between fearing Japanese invasion and revelling in the carnival atmosphere brought by the influx of American servicemen. But it is a city that would soon be gripped by terror – a serial killer is on the loose in the darkened streets, and three women have already been brutally strangled. The killer is an American soldier, Eddie Leonski, who has a twisted fascination with female voices ... especially when they are singing.

After an intense manhunt, Leonski is arrested then tried in Melbourne and hanged at Pentridge Gaol. Acclaimed author Ian W. Shaw brings World War II Melbourne to life, takes us into the mind of the Brownout Strangler, and a very different kind of war experience.

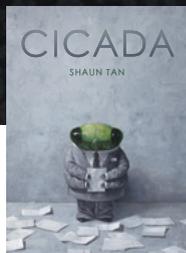

IAN W. SHAW is the author of six books: The Bloodbath, On Radji Beach, Glenrowan, The Ghosts of Roebuck Bay, The Rag Tag Fleet and Murder at Dusk. The Bloodbath was nominated for a Victorian Premier's Literary Award and was shortlisted in the Local History category. ## SHAUN TAN

I started writing because ... I like stories. Who doesn't? The real question is why didn't I stop writing, or stop drawing for that matter. Basically, I found a way to keep doing it and still pay the rent: make books that people can buy!

The best part of writing Cicada was ... cutting it back. It was originally a much longer, overwrought story about workplace bullying, but by reducing to the voice of a simple insect, it became much more open to interpretation.

Cicada* was inspired by ... I once saw a single flowering plant in the window of a huge, sterile-looking office block in Berlin. For some reason I imagined a bug working there among humans, and continued to think about this idea on and off for 10 years. Along the way I became interested in the 17-year life cycle of certain cicadas, and also enjoyed watching office-based sitcoms. These three unlikely influences seemed to naturally fold into each other.

When I'm not writing I ... am probably painting!

My favourite place to curl up with a book is ... With my wife and four-year-old daughter. Interestingly, this family time also counts as research, since almost all of the books are, naturally, picture books. I examine the imprint page, layout and production choices once everyone else has dropped off.

When the Titanic struck an iceberg, the first ship to respond to its distress signal was the Cunard liner Carpathia. This is the Carpathia's fascinating, dramatic and moving story.

CARPATHIA

Jay Ludowyke

Trade Paperback 9780733640674 | $32.99

Ebook 9780733640681 | $14.99 | Hachette Australia

In 1912, the Cunard steamship Carpathia receives a distress call from the new White Star liner Titanic. Captain Arthur Rostron immediately turns Carpathia northwest and sails full speed through the dark night, into waters laden with icebergs.

Almost a century later, Carpathia's wreck has finally been discovered. She's over 500 feet down and only a few divers in the world can attain this depth. Among them is Englishman Ric Waring's team, who are determined to be the first to reach the wreck.

In this captivating and intensely researched story, we follow the dual narratives of Rostron and the Carpathia, and of Waring's team and their dangerous determination to reach the wreck. We learn the history — and the fate — of the Carpathia, beyond 1912 and into World War I. Rich in history and drama, this true story reads like the best fiction.

JAY LUDOWYKE holds tertiary qualifications in writing, history and library services, and has been teaching writing at the University of the Sunshine Coast since 2013. She is also the recipient of an Australian Postgraduate Award, a federally funded scholarship given in recognition of the significance of her research on Carpathia and Titanic.

A stolen dog, thirty pounds of biscuits and a hot-air balloon ride to Australia – nothing is dull when Grandma Dangerous is around!

Ollie Brown's mum is an award-winning Health & Safety Officer, while his dad and grandma are intrepid explorers.

Grandma's always getting into trouble; the sort that involves rhinos, gunpowder and snakes. So naturally, when Dad's plane crash-lands in an Australian crocodile swamp, Mum rushes off to find him and Grandma Dangerous comes to stay.

KITA MITCHELL wrote and illustrated her first work, Cindersmella, at the age of six. She went on to produce films for Channel 4 – but the feeling that she should write funny books for children never went away.
