THE PASTOR AND THE PAINTER

Cindy Wockner

Trade Paperback 9780733636943 | $32.99

Ebook 9780733636950 | $16.99 | Hachette Australia

At 12.35 a.m. on the 29th April 2015, Andrew Chan and Myuran Sukumaran were led out in front of a firing squad. On that day, the Indonesian government did not execute two drug smugglers, they executed a pastor and a painter.

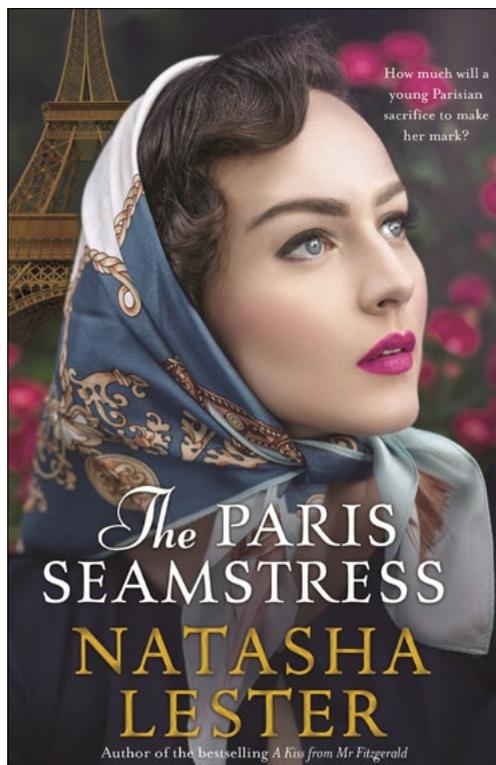

Cindy Wockner was the Indonesian correspondent for News Limited when the Bali Nine were caught. For a decade she covered their story and she got to know Myuran, Andrew and their families very well. She watched them transform from angry, defiant young men into fully rehabilitated good people.

This is the intimate, and untold, story of Andrew and Myuran; of their childhoods and what turned them to drugs, what happened in their ten years in Kerobokan Prison, the numerous legal appeals, the political fallout and the growing worldwide pleas for mercy that saw vigils held around Australia.

CINDY WOCKNER is National Investigations Editor at News Corporation Newspapers Australia. Her articles appear in News Corp papers across Australia, including The Courier-Mail, The Daily Telegraph, Herald-Sun, Adelaide Advertiser and NT News.

LEIGH STRAW

What is your favourite time period within Australian History?

Inter-War Australia (post-WWI and pre-WWII)

What inspired you to write about Lillian Armfield?

A desire to know more about underworld Sydney from the perspective of the first woman to investigate it.

The best part of writing about Lillian Armfield was . . . discovering just how much work Lillian crammed into her career as Australia's first female detective. Her list of investigations, some of them undercover, is quite impressive.

In three words Lillian Armfield was . . . tough, resilient, intelligent.

When I'm not writing I . . . am teaching history at university, listening to old Sinatra vinyls, or running after my three little boys.

The fascinating and unknown story of Australia's first woman detective and a gripping and colourful account of Sydney crime in the early part of last century.

By Leigh Straw

Trade Paperback 9780733638107 | $32.99
Ebook 9780733638114 | $16.99 | Hachette Australia

Lillian Armfield, a pioneer of Australian law enforcement, joined the Women's Police in Sydney in 1915 when it was a new auxiliary force. Women were not allowed to wear a uniform, carry a firearm, claim overtime or marry – and they got paid about half what a man would earn. Armfield – a tall, tough and intelligent woman from the country – became Australia's first female detective. It was no easy feat. In the early years of her work, few wanted her in the force.

Lillian Armfield's achievements in the police force are all the more remarkable given she served during some of the most dramatic years of crime in Sydney. She was awarded the Imperial Service Medal and the King's Police and Fire Services Medal – the first woman to ever receive the honours – but yet had to retire without superannuation.

DR LEIGH STRAW is an academic, historian and writer. Her previous book, The Worst Woman in Sydney, was a biography of Sydney underworld figure Kate Leigh. She is Senior Lecturer in Australian and Aboriginal Studies at the University of Notre Dame, Fremantle.

Discover how to rebuild your life after it is broken, repair the cracks, heal emotional wounds, and embrace imperfection.

This book explores the Japanese notion of Kintsugi, the ancient Japanese art of mending broken ceramics with gold, leaving visible the repair as a symbol of fragility, strength and beauty. Using this method as a metaphor, we will learn how to rebuild our lives after they have been broken, build resilience and heal emotional wounds.

TOMÁS NAVARRO is a psychologist who loves people and what they feel, think and do. He is the founder of a consultancy and centre of emotional wellbeing. He currently splits his time between technical writing, training, consultancy, conferences, and personal and professional coaching.
